CargoWise's Craig Seelig Selected for CBP Trade Ambassador Program

Chicago, IL, USA, April 20, 2011 — CargoWise®, a globally recognized technology supplier for logistics service providers, has announced that Craig Seelig, Product Manager – Customs and Government Compliance – Americas for the Company, has recently been selected to participate in the Customs and Border Protection's (CBP) Trade Ambassador Program.

The Trade Ambassador Program is a recognized hallmark of CBP's partnership with the international trade community. The program looks to its members to help CBP achieve representation with the trade community at large and to facilitate consensus on the Automated Commercial Environment (ACE) business and process redesigns.

Gene Gander, Vice President of Business Development – Americas for CargoWise, said: "CargoWise has a strong commitment to ongoing industry advancement, and we are pleased to have Craig participate in ACE development. Craig's depth of knowledge and experience will add great value to the program."

"I am honored to be selected to participate in the Trade Ambassador Program," said Seelig. "I look forward to working closely with CBP and other committee members on this important industry initiative."
